Activities

Back to the slate board

Students will delight in this old school experience straight out of the 1950's! Catapulted back to a time of black boards, jelly pads, and curious disciplinary techniques year ones will experience a class like no other. Lead through their studies by a 1950s styled teacher, students will learn that it was just as important to follow the Golden Rule, as it was to learn their A-B-Cs.

It's all fun and games

Before the innovation of television truly gripped the imaginations of Australian children, hours were spent each evening relishing the simple pleasures of classic street games. Through this activity, year one students will experience the joy of games from the 1950s. Children will twirl, spin, throw, laugh, and delight in all the amusements that kept their grandparents out 'til dark.

Are you being served?

Through this immersive exploration of days gone by, year one students will be put to work behind the counter of a small town general store. Purchasing and packaging, weighing and paying, children will get the rare opportunity to work as a 1950s shop boy or girl. Though they mustn't dilly dally or the often-cantankerous shop keeper may just have a thing or two to say about it!

A suburban dream

Students are invited to take a journey back in time for dinner. Experiencing family roles as never before, children will assist 1950s housewife 'Mrs Gamble' in her preparations for the nightly family meal. Children will have a hand in butter making (and eating!) and be rewarded with a glimpse into the technological revolutions of the decade.
